TOLERANCE OF THOSE WITH DIFFERENT FAITHS AND BELIEFS

What is tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs?

Tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs is the idea that we understand that people in our community may believe different things to us, but we accept their right to believe in what they want to believe in and we do not impose our own beliefs on them.

Key Vocabulary	Definition
tolerance	Allowing or accepting something that you don't agree with faith	Belief in a particular religion
community	Group of people who share something in common impose	Forcing decisions or ideas on others

Examples of skills

At Wellesley Park, we are tolerant of all people who are a part of, or who visit our school. We take an interest in learning about a diverse range of religions in our R.E. lessons, and discuss how we can be tolerant of others in our class assemblies and PSHE discussions. We show respect to everybody, regardless of who they are and what they believe.

Teaching this British Value should:

- support further tolerance and harmony between different cultural traditions by enabling students to acquire an appreciation for and respect for their own and other cultures
- encourage respect for other people, paying particular regard to the protected characteristics set out in the Equality Act 2010.
